Fireproof or galvanized outdoor cable trays

Overview

Our engineer's guide helps you choose the right outdoor cable tray based on environment, load, and corrosion resistance. Select HDG, Aluminum, or FRP with confidence. Grounding: Metallic trays (Steel, Aluminum) can be used as part of the equipment grounding conductor, but this must be designed and labeled per code (e. Route Planning and Layout Principles Coordinate with Building Structure: Cable tray routing should align with architectural design, avoiding unnecessary. Heavy duty cable trays and cable ladders are manufactured from pre-galvanized, electro-galvanized, or hot-dipped galvanized sheet metal, designed to meet ideal environmental working conditions for indoor and outdoor use in commercial or industrial environments with high cable density. For metallic options, galvanized steel trays offer robust protection and, when treated with intumescent fire-retardant coatings. There are several material choices available for cable trays in today's market, the most popular choices are steel (HDG/SS), aluminum, PVC and FRP/GRP. However, there is not a common consensus on how these material types compare to each other in fire conditions. So, we put them to test! Take a look.
