How much does one pigtail cost

Overview

Get a full cost breakdown for pigtailing aluminum wiring. We detail approved methods, necessary materials, and total project variables.

Key Takeaways

A single fiber optic pigtail typically costs between $2 and $10, depending on type, connector, and quality. Fiber optic pigtails are short cables with a factory-installed connector on one end and bare fiber on the other, used for splicing into trunk or distribution cables. Prices vary based on fiber type (single-mode OS2 or multimode OM3/OM4), connector type (SC, LC, FC, ST, APC, UPC), and buffer diameter (0.

9 mm, 2. 0 mm, 3. 0 mm),.

Standard single-mode pigtails for FTTH or data center applications usually cost around $2–$5 per unit, while higher-quality or specialty pigtails, such as APC connectors or armored jackets, can reach $7–$10 each.

Factors Affecting Price

Connector Type: LC and SC connectors are common; APC connectors are slightly more expensive due to angled polishing. Fiber Type: Single-mode fibers are generally cheaper than multimode fibers for short runs, but OM4 multimode pigtails for high-speed data centers may cost more. Buffer and Jacket: Tight-buffered pigtails (0.

9 mm) are standard for splice trays, while armored or outdoor-rated jackets increase cost. Quantity and Vendor: Bulk orders reduce per-unit cost; vendors like FS, Fiber4u, and Amazon offer different pricing and shipping options.
