Key Takeaways

Huijue Fiber Optic Cable, under Shanghai Huijue Network Communication Equipment Co., Ltd., was established in 2002. Huijue Network, the parent company of Huijue Fiber Optic Cable, was founded in 2002 in Shanghai, China. The company initially set up its own factory in Fengxian District, Shanghai, and later expanded its production base to Jiangsu Province, covering over 35,000 square meters.

From its inception, Huijue focused on intelligent network communication equipment, optical fiber components, and solutions for telecom operators, data centers, and other industries. Over the years, Huijue has grown into a high-tech service provider with multiple wholly-owned subsidiaries, including production and R&D centers in Jiangsu and Shanghai. The company has actively promoted fiber-to-the-home (FTTH) solutions, optical fiber connectors, and PLC splitters, establishing a strong presence in both domestic and international markets, including Europe, North America, Southeast Asia, and Australia.

The establishment of Huijue in 2002 marked the beginning of its journey in the fiber optic and network communication industry, laying the foundation for its current role as a leading supplier and solution provider in telecom and data center infrastructure.
